Learning Opportunity

The content of the sessions supplement the series that ran from February - April 2023. Please register for these workshops ONLY if you participated in the series this spring and/or have a solid background in morphology/orthography. If you do have these prerequisites, please feel free to register for this learning opportunity: Understanding and Teaching Morphology Div II.

Morphology is explicitly mentioned in the new English Language Arts and Literature 4-6 being implemented in the 2023-2024 school year. Now is the time to build your foundational knowledge of this concept. This series will start at the very beginning and go a little deeper each time so that you can explore morphology with your students confidently. Sessions will offer both background knowledge building and classroom activities that you can use with your students. The workshops will allow for you to play and explore with the concepts shared in the sessions.

WORKSHOP 1 October 11 4-5 PM MST Pause and review: Hypothesize a word sum. What resources do I use?

WORKSHOP 2 November 1 4-5 PM MST Pause and review: Assimilated Prefixes and Associated Bases

Presenters

Mary Beth Steven

Mary Beth Steven has recently retired after 26 years of teaching grade 5 at the Cambridge School District in Cambridge, Wisconsin. In her career she has received honors such as the Excellent Educator Award given by the Wisconsin Center for Talented and Gifted Youth, the Environmental Protector Award given by the Rock River Coalition, being featured in a National Geographic Geostory on citizen scientists, and most recently, being chosen as a Herb Kohl fellow based on her merits as an educator. For the majority of her career she has continuously altered the way she taught spelling, waiting to hit upon something that would actually be worthwhile. Within a month of spotting Structured Word Inquiry on another teacher's blog, she began using it with her students. In the 8 1/2 years since, she has been a continuous learner, taking online classes with Real Spelling and with Pete Bowers at Wordworks. She has documented much of her classroom work with students in her blog, "Mrs. Steven's Classroom Blog". Her students have welcomed the intrigue, the fascinating stories, and the unexpected surprises, but most of all they have embraced an understanding that was never offered to them before.
